

Whiskey, Cognac & Cigars: Guidance in Mixology, Pairing & Enjoying Lifes Finer Things

Some could argue that Bartenders make drinks, while Mixologists have a fuller understanding of the history of spirits, flavor profiles and how to best serve them. Mixologists create innovation in cocktails and culture, while remembering the past. Regardless of what you call yourself, there is a need for greater understanding. This is not a recipe book or bartender how to. However, this is a guide to the world of Whisky and Whiskey. Ever wondered which spelling is correct? Both! This book is for those who claim that Bourbon is only from Kentucky. Wrong! Or for those who want to know how a cigar is made, sizes, flavors and how to cut them. Whats the difference between Cognac & Armagnac? Now youll know. Can I pair food with Scotch? Now youll know. Which Spirit goes with my cigar? Now youll know. This book gives the standards of Scotch, Irish, American, and Canadian Whiskies, Brandy [Cognac] & Cigars, accompanied by their history, production methods, variances of the product, definitions, flavor profiles and how to pair them with various foods or other spirits. Mixologists & Bartenders are not born, theyre made. This book tells you how. A strong understanding of each product is needed to be well-rounded in the hospitality industry, no matter what you call yourself. Here we explain, clearly & concisely, all thats needed to fully understand these types of Spirits & Cigars; and how to serve them properly. For those not in the bar or restaurant field, well give you a solid understanding to make the best selection for personal preference or learn how to pair a Whiskey or Brandy with food or cigars. Well help you make better choices and be able to differentiate options, without having to personally try everything out there. Now youll know what youre doing in that cigar shop or bar! This book is just a sample of a wealth of information containing detailed product knowledge and service training in the hospitality industry. For those who wish to gain additional knowledge on countless subjects in mixology, bartending & the hospitality field in general, (or simply enjoying lifes finer things), please consult foodandbevuniversity.com. There's a reason the wealthy have been known to gravitate to Whiskey, Cognac & Cigars. These are indeed the finer things in life all should enjoy!
